

Statement by DreamQii Inc. Regarding July 2nd, 2018 Survey E-mail

On Monday, July 2, 2018 DreamQii Inc. received reports of a suspicious email received by Backers of the PlexiDrone Campaign. Within the first hour of receiving these reports, our support team took the following actions:

1. Notified Indiegogo Trust & Safety and SurveyMonkey customer support of the suspicious e-mail.
2. Reviewed reports received from Backers describing browser warnings received when clicking on hyperlinks within the suspicious e-mail.
3. Reviewed past correspondence between Indiegogo and DreamQii staff and determined that the e-mail address of the sender "trustsafety@indiegogo.com" was not recognized.

DreamQii has previously documented cases of Backers receiving e-mails from senders misrepresenting themselves as PlexiDrone affiliates. With our past experience, and the information available, our support team promptly acted to protect Backers and our business from a potential online threat.

Less than 24 hours after taking these actions, DreamQii received a response from the Indiegogo Trust & Safety team confirming that the e-mail was sent by a member of their staff along with the following explanation:

The e-mail sent out is a standard e-mail survey that has been sent out to campaigns that have not yet completed fulfillment of all perks. Indiegogo is constantly monitoring the status of campaigns which is a part of our review process. Since an update had not been posted in a few months [on the Indiegogo platform], the survey went out to backers. You can read more about Indiegogo's Trust team here: <https://learn.indiegogo.com/trust/>

Following this confirmation, DreamQii met with Indiegogo's Head of Trust & Safety and proactively shared confidential information regarding our company status, relationships with Backers, PlexiDrone manufacturing rates, status of our Backer shipping program, active Non-Disclosure Agreements, and Intellectual property filings. This is in addition to information previously shared to successfully move through the various campaign stages.

In light of the information shared between our organizations, it became evident that questions included in the survey e-mail may have been in conflict with various aspects of the PlexiDrone shipping program, among other policies.

Although our customer support team took prompt action to safeguard the interests of our Backers and business, we apologize for any confusion or concern that these actions may have caused. It is our aim to move past this situation and refocus our resources to execute on our commitment to Backers. We're committed to keeping our backers updated on the status of our campaign.